Intellect Discover launches on the Ingenta Edify Platform

Ingenta is pleased to announce the launch of Intellect Discover on our Edify platform, intellectdiscover.com on 20 April 2023.

This platform was launched as part of longstanding partnership with Intellect. As Intellect's needs expanded, we were able to provide our Ingenta Edify platform to provide increased flexibility and functionality and to let them grow their content in the future. The migration and implementation was both quick and painless due to the strong teams at both Ingenta and Intellect.

Ingenta Edify is a full-service content delivery platform designed to connect your audience with the content they need. This content-agnostic platform delivers many types of content and can expand quickly and easily to display, market and monetize new content types. Edify is ideal for organizations that want to make a change of platforms using a quick project and a convenient customizable content-delivery solution with comprehensive features and functionality.

'Discover will bring our thriving journals and books programmes together on one platform. The launch is the first step on an exciting journey - we intend to make the most of the multimedia capacity of the platform which will in future be the home of innovative video and audio research and teaching content. We will also continue to improve the functionality based on the feedback of our readers. This is a significant development for Intellect, allowing us more direct communication with our customers, and another step in our ongoing commitment to bringing the best service to our authors.'

Mark Lewis, Intellect Managing Director

"We are always pleased at being able to help unlock the future plans for our partners and this implementation is a testament to the strong partnership we have with Intellect. Our mutual commitment to help get all of the materials into the hands of the people who need it helps drive our future platform development. We look forward to continuing to expand this partnership and to enable Intellect to take advantage of all of the offerings on our Edify suite."

Scott Winner, CEO Ingenta

"We very much enjoyed working with Ingenta on implementation: the team was knowledgeable, enthusiastic and supportive, and we have been able to tailor the platform to the requirements of our business."

Jelena Stanovnik, Intellect Project Development Manager
