

December 9, 2021

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Revolver and Ingenta Announce their Partnership to Streamline Royalty Processing

Revolver have selected Ingenta's SaaS platform, conChord connect to handle distribution and management of their music royalties. This partnership represents over 90 years of independent work in the music and publishing industries

Revolver are pleased to announce a new working partnership with Ingenta. Ingenta are a leading content provider for the publishing industry listed on AIM, Ingenta are a significant software company with considerable experience of creating transparent royalty accounting. In this new agreement with Revolver, who operate in the recorded music sector, Ingenta will provide transparent royalty systems for Revolver artists and licensees.

Paul Birch – Director of Revolver Music Ltd, said: “this is a significant opportunity and landmark in creating open and transparent royalty systems to benefit our increasing roster of developing artists, and catalogue. We are thrilled to be working with Scott Winner. What we believe will be an innovative, systematic approach to creating a system with clear and open royalty accounting. “

“We will be looking to launch in quarter one, 2022.” Scott Winner, CEO of Ingenta, said “We are pleased to partner with Revolver and their staff as they have so much experience and knowledge in the music industry that aligns with our vision to effectively improve royalty processing and support of the music industry.”

Powered by conChord connect

Ingenta conChord connect offers small businesses a streamlined and affordable solution for automated music royalty management, from calculation to payment. Able to manage all types of music licenses, the SaaS platform can be integrated quickly and easily to support greater productivity and business growth.

conChord connect is a SaaS platform for companies seeking a simplified, cost-effective solution for royalty payments they can implement quickly. By automating operations across a variety of contract types, music formats, and schedules, conChord connect makes the royalty management and payment process faster and more efficient. Once the platform is loaded with your contract data and customer information, it calculates royalties, creates statements, and makes payments according to schedule.

For more information, please contact:

Revolver Music Ltd

T: 01902 345 345

E: press@revolverrecords.com

Ingenta:

T. +44 (0) 1865 397873

E: heather.lantz@ingenta.com